He advises them on a daily basis in the implementation of their projects in close contact with their legal departments and their managers. This proximity enables him to maintain a detailed knowledge of his clients' needs and to respond to them by mobilising the most appropriate legal tools.

Xavier Heymans assists local authorities, their groupings, public institutions and public and private companies (in particular constructors, developers and real estate companies) in the implementation of large-scale operations, from their conception (legal arrangements, land management, obtaining authorisations, adaptation of local urban planning regulations, etc.) to their completion (in particular contract execution).

Xavier Heymans has been involved in several high-profile disputes relating to road bypass infrastructures on behalf of project owners and in the context of operations of national interest.

He also assists local authorities and government departments in the development of coastal areas and the management of the recession of the Atlantic and Mediterranean coastlines.
