

Agriculture And Food Processing In China

With a presence in China since 1992, Adaltys has very early on developed a unique competence in the agriculture and food processing industry.

Indeed, with 9% of the world's arable land, China is responsible for feeding 20% of the world's population. This strategic sector thus offers unique opportunities for French companies to export or set up in China.

Adaltys advises all types of players in various sectors to help them approach this market and successfully complete their projects in China. The firm assists traditional companies, agricultural cooperatives, technical institutes and inter-professional organisations.

The firm has set up an expertise centre dedicated to the agriculture and food-processing industry made up of highly experienced French and Chinese lawyers, well acquainted with the industry's specificities, in order to assist its clients in all parts of China, including the agricultural provinces furthest away from the major urban centres.

Highly involved in the sector, our partner in charge is also the coordinator of the Agro Club of the France-China Chamber of Commerce and Industry, in liaison with the agricultural advisers of the French Embassy in China.
