

Commercial Law, Contracts, Distribution And Consumption

We assist companies in safeguarding their commercial relations with their partners, customers, suppliers, distributors and subcontractors and advise them in the development of their distribution and supply policy, whether nationally or internationally.

We also assist them in the structuring of their industrial and technological partnerships, whether in the development and implementation of co-development agreements, technology transfers, intellectual property rights and know-how licences.

We act during the negotiation of contracts, their drafting and their implementation, particularly in the event of difficulties in execution or termination.
